

Creating Walkable Communities

One-day Class with Nationally Acclaimed Expert Dan Burden

Join pedestrian and bicycle infrastructure expert Dan Burden for this dynamic class on creating healthy, safe and livable communities. Using scores of striking images and examples, Dan will show how the building blocks of good land use planning lay the groundwork for pedestrian access and mobility as well as safe and efficient traffic flow.

He will illustrate the features of well-designed streets, sidewalks, crosswalks, bicycle lanes, parking lanes and other elements of walkable communities. In addition, he will highlight case studies and solutions to specific challenges and emphasize economic and community-building reasons to design for walkability.

Specific Topics To Be Covered

- Defining a Walkable/Livable Community
- Guidelines for Building Safe, Healthy Streets
